CSS (/siːˈsɛs/ ⓘ). Cascading Style Sheets is a style language for describing the appearance of web pages and web applications. CSS is a declarative language, meaning that you describe how you want the page to look, and the browser does the work of rendering the page. CSS is used to control the layout, colors, fonts, and other visual aspects of a web page. It is a key technology for creating responsive web design, which allows web pages to be viewed and interacted with on a wide range of devices, from desktop computers to smartphones and tablets. CSS is also used to create animations and transitions, which can make web pages more engaging and interactive. CSS is a powerful tool for web developers, and it is essential for creating professional-looking web pages and applications.

The following is a comparison of e-book formats used to create and publish e-books.. The EPUB format is the most widely supported vendor-independent XML-based (as opposed to PDF) e-book format; that is, it is supported by the largest number of e-Readers, including Amazon Kindle Fire (but not standard Kindle). See table below for details.
